The purpose of our study was to establish CT-verified prognostic factors in advanced hepatocellular carcinoma. Sixty-four surgically proven, CT-verified, cirrhotic patients with advanced HCC (n = 64) were included in our study. The mean follow-up period was 8.2 months. The clinical data were analyzed by univariate and multivariate analyses. Survival curves were constructed by the Kaplan-Meier method. Univariate analysis of the following parameters revealed significant differences in survival: age, alphafetoprotein, tumor size, portal vein invasion, and arterial enhancement. A multivariate analysis of all parameters that were significant in the univariate analysis identified portal vein invasion, age, and alpha-fetoprotein as the most important factors that predict survival. Tumor size, portal vein invasion, and age are the most important CT-verified prognostic factors for survival in patients with advanced HCC. as well as did not have any various carry out to the wedding ceremony essay.
